DETAILED ACTION

Specification

1. The use of the trademark VELCRO has been noted in this application. It should be capitalized wherever it appears and be accompanied by the generic terminology.

Although the use of trademarks is permissible in patent applications, the proprietary nature of the marks should be respected and every effort made to prevent their use in any manner which might adversely affect their validity as trademarks.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

2. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

3. Claims 1 and 2 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being clearly anticipated by U.S. Patent No. 5,857,778 to Ells.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

4. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

5. Claims 3 and 6 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Ells and U.S. Patent No. 6,048,099 to Muffett et al.

Ells discloses the claimed invention, especially the plastics material (56) being corrugated plastic. However, it is unclear if the plastics material is corrugated polypropylene. Muffett et al. teaches that it is known in the art use corrugated polypropylene for the plastics material (62) of an analogous package. It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to form the plastics material of Ells with the corrugated polypropylene of Muffett et al., since it has been held to be within the general skill of a worker in the art to select a known material on the basis of its suitability for the intended use as a matter of obvious design choice.

6. Claims 4 and 7 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Ells.

Ells discloses the claimed invention, especially the base layer including a woven plastic (50). However, Ells discloses the base layer including woven polyester instead of woven polypropylene. It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to replace the woven polyester of Ells with woven polypropylene, since the Examiner takes Official Notice of the equivalence of woven polyester and woven polypropylene for their use in the packaging art and the selection of any of these known equivalents to reinforce the package of Ells would be within the level of ordinary skill in the art.

7. Claims 1, 2, 5 and 8 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over U.S. Patent No. 6,196,287 to Haberkorn and Ells.

Haberkorn discloses the claimed device (see Figs. 23-27), except for at least the first and second protective regions (i.e., the top and bottom sections) including a second layer formed of plastics material bonded to the base layer. Ells teaches that it is known in the art to provide at least first and second protective regions with a second layer (56) formed of plastics material bonded to the base layer of an analogous package. It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to provide at least the first and second protective regions of Haberkorn with the second layer formed of plastics material of Ells, in order to render the package self-supporting.

Conclusion

8. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.

9. Applicant is duly reminded that a complete response must satisfy the requirements of 37 C.F. R. 1.111, including: "The reply must present arguments pointing out the specific distinctions believed to render the claims, including any newly presented claims, patentable over any applied references. A general allegation that the claims "define a patentable invention" without specifically pointing out how the language of the claims patentably distinguishes them from the references does not comply with the requirements of this section. Moreover, "The prompt development of a clear Issue requires that the replies of the applicant meet the objections to and rejections of the claims." Applicant should also specifically point out the support for any amendments made to the disclosure. See MPEP 714.02 and MPEP 2163.06. The "disclosure" includes the claims, the specification and the drawings.
